Richard III

Act 3 Scene 5, lines 1 to 49

The courtyard of the Tower of London.

Enter RICHARD and BUCKINGHAM, wearing old and very rusty pieces of armour (as if hurriedly put on).

RICHARD Come, cousin, canst thou quake and change thy colour, Murder thy breath in middle of a word, And then again begin, and stop again, As if thou wert distraught and mad with terror?

BUCKINGHAM Tut, I can counterfeit the deep tragedian! 5
Speak and look back, and pry on every side, Tremble and start at wagging of a straw, Intending deep suspicion. Ghastly looks Are at my service, like enforced smiles – And both are ready in their offices At any time to grace my stratagems. But what, is Catesby gone?

RICHARD He is – and see, he brings the mayor along.

Enter CATESBY, with the LORD MAYOR of London.

BUCKINGHAM Lord Mayor –

RICHARD Look to the drawbridge there! 15

BUCKINGHAM Hark! A drum.

RICHARD Catesby, o’erlook the walls!

BUCKINGHAM Lord Mayor, the reason we have sent –

RICHARD Look back, defend thee! Here are enemies!

BUCKINGHAM God and our innocence defend and guard us! 20

Enter LOVELL and RATCLIFFE, bringing the head of Hastings.

Turn over
RICHARD  Be patient. They are friends – Ratcliffe and Lovell.

LOVELL  Here is the head of that ignoble traitor,
The dangerous and unsuspected Hastings.

RICHARD  So dear I loved the man that I must weep.
I took him for the plainest harmless creature
That breathed upon the earth a Christian:
Made him my book, wherein my soul recorded
The history of all her secret thoughts.
So smooth he daubed his vice with show of virtue
That, his apparent open guilt omitted –
I mean his conversation with Shore’s wife –
He lived from all attainder of suspects.

BUCKINGHAM  Well, well, he was the covert’st sheltered traitor
That ever lived!
Would you imagine, or almost believe –
Were’t not that by great preservation
We live to tell it – that the subtle traitor
This day had plotted, in the council-house,
To murder me and my good Lord of Gloucester?

MAYOR  Had he done so?

RICHARD  What! Think you we are Turks or infidels?
Or that we would, against the form of law,
Proceed thus rashly in the villain’s death
But that the extreme peril of the case,
The peace of England and our persons’ safety,
Enforced us to this execution?

MAYOR  Now fair befall you! He deserved his death!
And your good Graces both have well proceeded
To warn false traitors from the like attempts.
Act 4 Scene 2, lines 1 to 45

In this extract, Richard hints to Buckingham that the young princes should be killed, but Buckingham seems unwilling to get involved.

London: the palace.

Trumpets sound. Enter RICHARD, newly crowned as King, in procession. Attending him, BUCKINGHAM, CATESBY, RATCLIFFE and LOVELL, with a boy PAGE, and others.

KING RICHARD Stand all apart! Cousin of Buckingham!
BUCKINGHAM My gracious sovereign?
KING RICHARD Give me thy hand.

RICHARD ascends to the royal throne, and sits.
Trumpets sound a fanfare.
All kneel to him as King, then stand back from the throne as he speaks with BUCKINGHAM.

Thus high, by thy advice
And thy assistance, is King Richard seated.
But shall we wear these glories for a day? –
Or shall they last, and we rejoice in them?

BUCKINGHAM Still live they, and for ever let them last!
KING RICHARD Ah, Buckingham, now do I play the touch,
To try if thou be current gold indeed.
Young Edward lives – think now what I would speak.

BUCKINGHAM Say on, my loving lord.
KING RICHARD Why, Buckingham – I say I would be King.
BUCKINGHAM Why, so you are, my thrice-renownèd lord.
KING RICHARD Ha! Am I King? ’Tis so – but Edward lives.
BUCKINGHAM True, noble Prince.

Turn over
KING RICHARD

O bitter consequence!
That Edward still should live – ‘true noble Prince!’
Cousin, thou wast not wont to be so dull.
Shall I be plain? I wish the bastards dead!
And I would have it suddenly performed.
What say’st thou now? Speak suddenly, be brief.

BUCKINGHAM
Your Grace may do your pleasure.

KING RICHARD
Tut, tut, thou art all ice. Thy kindness freezes.
Say, have I thy consent that they shall die?

BUCKINGHAM
Give me some little breath, some pause, dear lord,
Before I positively speak in this.
I will resolve you herein presently.

Exit.

CATESBY
(Aside to another) The King is angry. See, he gnaws his lip.

KING RICHARD
(Aside) I will converse with iron-witted fools
And unrespective boys – none are for me
That look into me with considerate eyes!
High-reaching Buckingham grows circumspect.
(To the PAGE) Boy!

PAGE
(Coming close to the throne) My lord?

KING RICHARD
Know’st thou not any whom corrupting gold
Will tempt unto a close exploit of death?

PAGE
I know a discontented gentleman
Whose humble means match not his haughty spirit.
Gold were as good as twenty orators,
And will, no doubt, tempt him to anything.

KING RICHARD
What is his name?

PAGE
His name, my lord, is Tyrrel.

Exit.
KING RICHARD    I partly know the man. Go, call him hither, boy.

Exit PAGE.

(Aside) The deep-revolving witty Buckingham
No more shall be the neighbour to my counsels.
Hath he so long held out with me, untired,
And stops he now for breath? Well, be it so!
